

Allowing Sinclair to air a politically biased documentary days before an election is a clear case of abuse of media consolidation. How can this be allowed? A primetime showing of a democratic documentary must then be allowed on those same stations prior to the election, no?